(740/750) International fuldmægtig: Patentanwalt Erich Schmitzke, Stadtweg 18, 06528 Holdenstedt, Tyskland

(511) Klasse 09: CComputer programs stored on floppy discs, magnetic discs, magnetic tapes and other data storage media; data banks with a modular program structure, for free configuration according to user requirements, namely computer software for professionals recorded on data media and used in industries based on industrial procedures and assembly production, especially for professionals working in the food, beverage, tobacco, commerce, logistics, chemicals, dye, pharmaceutical and cosmetics industries; data processing systems for integrating all types of business transactions into administration, quality management, production, sales and logistics, accounting and finances as well as into human resources regarding salaries, fixed salaries and time management; computer software for professionals for integrating procedures and processes into company data entry as well as into the concept of continuous CIM (computer integrated manufacturing), connections and controls for components of computer systems and peripheral devices such as scales, scanners, transport, warehousing and control systems for recorded programs; management and internal audit software (MIS - Management Information System); computer software for managing electronic client/seller relationships integrating computer telephony (CTI), the Internet and electronic commerce solutions (communication ware); computer software for marketing and communication, especially for telecommunications, such as telephone marketing (called parties/callers), concepts for call centers and data base management; apparatus, equipment, components and equipment for transmitting, reproducing and recording sound or images (included in this class), particularly for individually grouping telecommunications and data technologies into a system comprising language, images and information; standard modified computer apparatus and computers, monitors and servers, keyboards, computer networks; additional apparatus and peripheral apparatus for computers (components of computer systems), namely data input and output devices, such as apparatus for storing, visualizing and transmitting data and other peripheral computer apparatus such as CIM hardware; racks for data processing apparatus, computers and peripheral data processing apparatus for use in extreme operating conditions, namely water spray, humidity, effects of the cold, heat and/or dust as well as for explosion proofing and hazardous materials; computer-operated systems for evaluating slaughter animal halves and ultrasonic measuring apparatus for determining meat layers; additional electric and electronic apparatus for automatic scales and non automatic scales for automatic weighing as well as other devices for computing measuring data which can be connected to data processing installations; computers for stock-keeping; parts of all the above-mentioned goods (included in this class); networked educational software.

(511) Klasse 16: Written representation of data processing programs, namely operating and user instructions concerning the above-mentioned programs and software; written supporting documents for data processing programs related to the above-mentioned programs and software and relevant documentation in the form of user manuals, product descriptions, handbooks, pamphlets, organization charts and printed matter; instructional manuals and documents as well as graphic representations of instructional material and documents for seminars, instructional and training material (except for apparatus).

(511) Klasse 35: Computer-aided business management consulting and support in all marketing issues and data processing applications in the field of marketing, advertising, public relations, sales promotion, sales assistance, personnel management and market studies; operational management consulting for communication-oriented companies concerning the application of computer science to the control and coordination of all operational processes, from purchasing to selling and including production; business management consulting and support in the framework of organizing and managing all information technology solutions of a company specific to professionals; drafting forecasts, effective analyses and pre-established concepts and cost/price analyses for computer science applications specific to professionals; consulting and support in the framework of drafting effective analyses and pre-established concepts for effective company resource planning and production control and planning, including future corporate processes as well as drafting of cost/price analyses; operational management consulting with a view to applying optimum software and hardware components integrating computer programs specific to professionals; operational management and organizational consulting in the framework of drafting concepts, analyzing and optimizing full-scale business operations, for example existing business operations and designing of new business operations; operational management consulting in the framework of business organization and management for strategic and operational issues concerning information management and data processing structure development, namely operational management consulting in the field of software and hardware as well as in the framework of operating information technology systems; personnel management consulting, preferably in information technology-related fields; business management consulting and support in the framework of personnel training and development.

(511) Klasse 37: Installation, repair and maintenance of data processing hardware components and systems; installation, after-sales service, repair and maintenance of telecommunication installations, components and apparatus and their computer connections to computer telephony integration (CTI) systems; setting up of network and cable management systems, network operation systems and electronic mail in the framework of installation work; extension and optimization of existing telecommunication networks in the framework of installation work; universal wiring of buildings.

(511) Klasse 38: Telecommunications services; electronic transmission of information via the Internet; providing information via telephone hotlines; rental of telecommunication apparatus and equipment; provision of services of a virtual communication center (telecommunications) integrating, by several means, the usual services provided by call centers, after-sales services and electronic office services in the form of an interactive platform using the most diverse communication means and methods on the basis of numerous constantly-updated integrated software modules, such as digital connection with the world of information technologies, companies of various sizes being authorized to access diverse services (electronic office services in the form of leasing work to be carried out) in the field of telecommunication, remote management, electronic office services, application hosting, application sharing, assistance in the field of electronic commerce as well as consulting in the form of business management consulting and support with a view to optimizing these procedures; technical consulting for users of information technologies with a view to connecting telecommunication installations to various communication channels and/or services.

(511) Klasse 41: Education and training, namely innovative, practical further training in an academy; operation of a virtual academy; education and instruction for professional development in the form of a graduate school; distance learning and distance courses, preferably in the form of on-line courses with the help of electronic teaching aids; consulting in the field of training, further training and education; arrangement, organization and direction of colloquia, conferences, conventions, lectures, seminars and symposiums; organization and carrying out (providing of training); organizations of exhibitions for cultural and/or didactic purposes; text publication (except for advertising texts); publication of printed accompanying material relating to lectures, branches of study and seminars as well as in the form of training software on networks; operation of an on-line training library; operation of a boarding school; publication of written documents on innovative complex solutions for information technologies with a view to optimum company management and the use of integrated software for professionals with a view to optimizing all business transactions.

(511) Klasse 42: Computer consulting; computer consulting services and computer systems analyses; technical consulting for companies on strategic and operational issues concerning organizational and information management; software consulting as well as implementation of computer programs in networked structures; creation of programs for computer integration systems, mainly composed of driver software and a hardware-based data processing support system with a view to connecting telecommunication installations to the most diverse computer installations in all operating systems and data bases with access to all standard systems; development of customized solutions in the field of information technologies; customized design of computer structures, namely regular technical consulting in the field of software and hardware; programming, design and development of programs specific to professionals of modular data processing program structures; engineering, technical consulting, planning, survey and project follow-up in the form of complete project management in the field of data processing systems specific to professionals with a view to integrating all business transactions in administration, quality management, sales and logistics; design and updating of computer hardware configurations independent of the respective manufacturer or a specific platform as well as of peripheral technology in an integrated CIM concept; customized design of computer structures, namely regular technical consulting in the field of software and hardware; design and updating of components of special hardware, such as racks for data processing apparatus, computers and peripheral data processing devices for use in extreme operating conditions, namely water spray, humidity, effects of the cold, heat and/or dust as well as for explosion proofing and hazardous materials; design and updating of connections for scales and scanners; connection of computer software to data networks; computer software updating; esthetic design of computer software; restoration of computer software; installation, maintenance and monitoring of computer software; design of made-to-measure maintenance concepts for data processing; granting of licenses as well as rental of data processing software; consulting in the application and development of information technologies for operational and organizational management as well as with a view to integrating information technology systems.
